The Office of the Interagency Committee Redesigns Website

Olympia - May 8, 2003 – The Office of the Interagency Committee's web page now includes Featured Projects and Interactive Maps.

To help make its web pages more user friendly and appealing the Office of the Interagency Committee has recently redesigned its entire website. The newly designed web pages now include photos and information highlighting different projects that have been funded through the Interagency Committee for Outdoor Recreation (IAC) or the Salmon Recovery Funding Board (SRFB).

The agency has also added interactive mapping which features a point-and-click interface allowing users to click on state maps to find state boating facilities or projects applied for or funded. Once you locate the boating site or project you are interested in, you can click on the project for more information.

For more information about IAC's website, send e-mails to webmaster@iac.wa.gov
